EDINBURGH COLLEGE TECHNICAL AND VOCATIONAL

Information for International partners

Edinburgh College is delighted to present our Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET) offering to the International market.

Edinburgh College has many years of experience working with international partners to help their current and future workforce develop the skills they need in a modern, thriving and changing economy. We use our experience and expertise in vocational skills and English language training to develop tailor-made programmes to meet the specific needs of our partners. Programmes can be designed for delivery on one of our four campuses in Edinburgh, internationally, online or through blended learning.

We welcome the opportunity to work with international partners in the following areas:

- Providing courses for students
 - Bespoke TVET and English Language short courses
 - Embedded courses
 - Study in Edinburgh
- Teacher Training
 - Vocational teacher training and upskilling
 - English Language and EMI teacher training and upskilling
- TVET Curriculum design and development
 - Development of new curriculum
 - Enhancement of existing curriculum
- TVET Capacity Building
- Consultancy for TVET training providers and government bodies
- Bespoke skills training for industry professionals
- TNE partnerships and programmes

Our curriculum areas include:

Business and Administration, Creative Industries, Early Years Education, Engineering, English Language, Health and Wellbeing, Information Technology, STEM and Construction, and Tourism and Hospitality.

Why Edinburgh College?

Expertise

Our staff and teachers are subject experts in their areas of vocational and skills training. Many of our staff have workforce experience in their subject area and are passionate about the subjects they teach. Edinburgh College works with our international partners to develop modern, engaging courses based on industry best-practice to help your students thrive in the workforce.

Experience

Edinburgh College has many years of experience working with international partners to support the upskilling of their staff and students. This includes projects working with local and national governments, the British Council, international companies and universities and colleges from across the globe. Through engaging with international partners, we have shared our knowledge and experience but also gained valuable insight and understanding into the educational, cultural and professional contexts and practices in other countries.

Flexibility

Edinburgh College offers flexible international delivery, and can deliver courses online (both synchronous and asynchronous delivery), internationally, in Scotland, or using a mixture of these teaching methods (blended learning). We tailor our approach to our partner's needs to ensure the training is adapted to the local context to ensure maximum impact.

People-centric approach

Edinburgh College puts people at the heart of what we do. We listen and learn from our international partners about their specific needs, applying an individualised approach to every international project we undertake.

Industry-driven skills training

Edinburgh College works closely with an extensive network of over 2,000 local, national and international businesses and employers. This enables us to ensure the training and qualifications we provide are relevant to the contemporary skills demand of industry and that our graduates are equipped with the skills they need to thrive in the modern workplace.

ATIONAL EDUCATION AND TRAINING

About Edinburgh College

Based in Scotland's beautiful capital city, and operating across four main campuses, Edinburgh College is one of the leading government-funded colleges in Scotland and one of the largest in the UK, with more than 26,000 students and 1,200 staff.

At Edinburgh College our key commitment is to put students at the centre of what we do and what we provide. Strong and vibrant vocational education provision is our highest priority as are strong links with employers and our local universities. We have a diverse student population, with 15% of the College's student body coming from outside the UK, from over 120 countries worldwide.

The College has a broad curriculum based around four key academic faculties, which underpin the development and sustainability of key economic sectors, working hand-in-hand with industry. Our four faculty areas are: Creative Industries; Engineering and Construction; Health, Wellbeing and Social Science; Tourism, Hospitality and Business.

The College also delivers a portfolio of long-standing national vocational training programmes and apprenticeships. These are delivered in partnership with employers and this has helped the College deepen our employer and industry engagement.

This experience of matching skills training provision to regional and employer demand provides a strong background for engaging with International skills training authorities and providers to develop relevant, labour market driven skills training.
